Thankful

Happy Thanksgiving, or nearly anyway! I was going to send this newsletter next week but then I realized that many of you will be traveling or cooking. I'm not overloading you with holiday-themed ideas, but you might want to check out the spiced chai recipe below for those times when you need a little break from it all.

We're all counting our blessings this time of year, and I am grateful to be able to share my professional talents with one of my favorite organizations, Habitat for Humanity. We've rescheduled our DIY event for you to come and make your own Jewelry Frame like the one shown here. Keep it for yourself or give as a holiday gift (here before you know it). 100% of your $25 registration goes to Habitat for Humanity and the families served by this awesome organization. Read more about it and register here.

Did you wonder about those HelpOuts introduced last month? There are still a few promotional slots left for you to get bite-sized, completely personalized help from me on your organizing project. All you need is a smartphone or laptop with a camera, and this link:

<http://Helpouts.Google.com> and search for my name, Darla DeMorrow. Use promo code DARLA48C, you actually make money. Let's make it happen.

Another way to get organizing help from me is through the Email Organizing chat going on today over at the HeartWork Organizing Facebook page. There's nothing to buy, register or sign up for. Just stop by and let's solve your most vexing email problems live until 9 pm tonight. I don't do these very often because I have to be at my computer all day, so please stop by and get customized answers live today!
