31 Days of Clutter-Free Living

THANKS for reading, commenting, and chuckling along with me into 2015. It's been 11 years since HeartWork Organizing started helping you get organized, and I treasure every one of those opportunities!

I hope you are signed up for the blog articles, because we've started the 31 Days of Clutter-Free Living series.

Subscribers get a free, fresh new article every day this month with organizing ideas. You've asked help with paper clutter, and I promise to deliver. Even better, we have some GREAT clutter-free giveaways that you are going to love! And I've set up a Clutter-Free Living FB group where you can join in and be inspired by the projects that others are sharing. We'd love to cheer you on as you get organized this year.

Speaking of cheering on, I've signed up to be part of the Habitat for Humanity Women Build Days in January, and I'd love your support. You've seen me partner with the ReStore in past years. Just this last year on we offered jewelry frames and Painting 101 classes. WomenBuild is a chance for me to get hands on with their projects again. In past Habitat workdays, I've done things like string electrical wire throughout the studs, hand drywall, pour concrete sidewalks, lay kitchen flooring, and of course, paint. I have to raise $250 for each day on site. I've already personally committed to one day, but need your donations to be able to attend more days or to allow my staff to join me, so we can get more done on the house. Here's my fundraising page. If you'd like to join me on 1/28- 30, make a tax-deductible donation of $250 on my page (or set up your own page). The first 20 people who make a tax deductible donation of at least $50 will receive a complimentary subscription to Getting Organized Magazine, a print magazine produced by my peers. Your donation goes straight to the mission of ending substandard housing in the area.

Even if you can't support my Habitat for Humanity WomenBuild days, you can still receive a 20% discount on Getting Organized magazine with coupon code: GetOrgJan15 through 1/31/15. They are giving away a ScanSnap ix500 desktop scanner, so stop by their site to get in on the giveaway action. That would definitely help get you closer to paper-less!

Thanks again for coming with me through January, aka National Get Organized Month. If I can help you personally get organized, either with a virtual appointment or hands-on work, I'd love to hear from you.
