Challenged

It's a challenge to keep my newsletters short with so much news for you.

Could your kid use a new set of bedroom furniture? I've teamed up with SmartStuff Furniture to offer a free personalized space plan to 3 winners AND a set of the furniture I recommend to one of those winners. Their furniture is high-quality and safety-focused. You'll be impressed with the styles when you head over to enter this contest. This is the same high-quality furniture used in my daughter's Paris-inspired bedroom makeover. Remember when I showed you the space plan, and then the finished room? That could be yours. Enter NOW!!

Need inspiration for a different room? I have you covered in the giveaway for Maxwell Ryan's new book, Complete + Happy Home. This design book is lovely, with dozens of real, beautiful homes, and tips to inspire your own personal and happy place. Just click here to enter this giveaway, but only for the next day or so. Two winners will be picked!

If you are more focused on organizing for the time being, you're in luck. We've just started the 2016 Summer Declutter 10-Week Organizing Challenge. Click here to see the list of projects scheduled, starting with the garage/shed/mudroom/car. You have a choice because it's too hot in some areas to be in the garage. Joining the group is free. We're here to inspire and celebrate your organizing wins.

By the way, does anyone have any advice for visiting Australia??? I'm going to be giving the opening keynote address at a conference of Australian professional organizers in Melbourne, Australia. I'll be helping them Take a Break from a Small Business Without Killing It. I'm so excited about this Australia and New Zealand trip, and I'll take any advice you have for me.

Read on for more organizing and decorating ideas. But seriously, folks, enter this SmartStuff4Kids furniture giveaway today!
