Consider This:

Isn't it amazing that all colors come from just three, red, yellow and blue? If you are intimidated by the wall of paint chips at the hardware store, start with the basic color wheel, then consider your preference for color intensity, additions of blacks and browns, and desire for color combinations versus a single color palate.

Wall and Window Treatments You'll Love

There's a great commercial for Lowes where sad lovers gaze into their home's innards with pithy comments like, "You've really let yourself go," and, "I just need more space". You may feel like you want to tell your walls, "I really want you to speak to me more." What about your window treatments? "We just have such different styles."

If you need inspiration for a fulfilling new relationship, you've come to the right place.

If Cupid's Bow were a Decorating Wand

- Think you can't do windows? Even the average Jolene can add color with a simple scarf, valance, or richly colored panels. Sometimes adding some really great, substantial hardware seals the deal.
- Think layers. Not just good advice for cold weather, windows often need layers to feel full and lively, as well as address all issues in a room, such as light control, energy efficiency, privacy and looks.
- Architectural details sometimes make the room. Great hardware can be just the right splurge. A wonderful chunky wall accent can be used to support window coverings, add texture to space, or create surprise if mounted with interest.
- Romance written on the walls. Add vinyl transfer words, free-hand paint a snappy border, or purchase paint-transfer mural accents to enliven a favorite space on a flat painted wall, without the commitment of wallpaper. Contact us for the coolest!
- Paint for warmth. You can't underestimate the power of the right color to create cozy and comfortable. A $20 bucket of paint might just be your new favorite accessory.

Simple Tip: Magazines, catalogs, and online decorating sites can give you a jump start to a new look.
