Just announced: 2012 Clear Path Strategies clutter support groups- and the yummiest organizing class

Dear John,

I hope you are loving your holiday events and traditions. My four year old is really taken with the dinner ceremony where we light our advent candles. I'll let you in on a little secret. Weekends have been filled with so many fun things, that we haven't gotten to actually light each week's new candle, which is usually done on Sundays, until mid-week. But we carry on with our special tradition in an untraditional way. Just in case you need permission to have a less than magazine-perfect holiday, here it is, from me to you.

Hey, I'm in the biz of creating organized and beautiful surroundings, but that's not the ultimate goal. "I bring you good tidings of great joy," said the angel so long ago. One of my favorite places to read about joy and regular people is Guideposts, a magazine my mom has gifted to me each Christmas for over 20 years. Thanks, Mom. This year, I'm offering that same gift to you. I am gifting a limited number of subscriptions to my loyal readers. If you could use a year of true stories of hope and inspiration, please email me for your free gift subscription to Guideposts. No catch, no contest to enter, just a gift from me to you. But there are only a limited number of subscriptions to give before the end of the year. I just pray that you can find a comfortable corner (like the one below) to enjoy these stories that make me smile, cry, and count my blessings each month.

Joy to you and your family.

you've ever attended. Register now to be sure your preferred class is available.

January 24, 7 PM, "Lose 30 Pounds in 30 Minutes" at Plymouth Meeting Community Center Cut the clutter and get real with your resolutions. Go from ordinary to organized in 5 steps that you can do at home. Paper, household stuff and kid clutter can all be contained. Learn how to get un-stuck in your efforts and end up with beautiful spaces that really work for you.

See my website for updated times and places. Want a presentation closer to you? Please call me about how we can make that happen.

A Warm Place to Gather ...And Second Chances

We recently completed another room makeover for one of my favorite clients, and I'd like to share it with you. Keep reading till the end for a little extra surprise.

This was the room before.

Here is the room after:

We had fun with the main seating area anchored by a beautiful and colorful 9x12 rug,

Ready to downsize your personal library? There are many resources to consider, including those on the web, like www.Cash4Books.com. If your books aren't as valuable as you thought, consider donating them to your local library if they have book sale events, and take a tax deduction.

the reading area,

and the bookshelves.

This was a large room, so we added lots of accessories and lighting, as well as art. Everywhere we could, we added color.

We had a great time designing and installing this new room, that is now a warm place to gather.
