Can't Wait to See You: Events

~Thursday, December 17. Paper Organizing for IHN guests (invitation only)

Thanks for All the Fish

Thankful. Somehow it just seems wrong to start a November newsletter with anything other than that.

My kids did a silly writing assignment of things they were thankful for. Dogs. Math. StarWars. Cheese. Well, sure! And while we're at it, Thanks for All the Fish. (Does anyone else know what that's from?)

I'm also thankful for a great staff (Shout out to the amazing and fabulous Tori!), great suppliers, high-quality service providers, and YOU. Whether you just read my stuff, or if I've had the honor and privilege of working in your home or business, know that I am, indeed, thankful for you. I never take that trust for granted.

Last month I took a break from Facebook and pretty much all social media. I'm thankful for the good sense to have done that. If you are on the fence, give yourself the gift of a little peace this season, and dare to unplug. I'm glad I did.

I'm thankful to be starting work on a very big project here at home, known as the Big Girl's Room. It's pretty rare that I have time to take on a big project like this for myself, and I can't wait to show it off in January. Funny, it started out being a little redecorating, and is now a huge undertaking. I'll explain more, and show off some of my favorite things ever, in January. I hope you'll be inspired by the changes.

By the way, tomorrow is December already. Take a moment to check out my simple routines for the first of each month, to keep things running smoothly around here.
