Leap!

Why, yes, indeed, I could use an extra day, thank you.

For a short month, February was chock full of home show appearances, home improvements, business expansion, organizing and room makeovers, birthdays, snowstorms, and...that's quite enough, thank you.

So what are you doing with your extra leap day?

I've already used up my leap day this month on a project here at home with SmartStuff Furniture that I'll be revealing this week. (Hint in the photo above.)

I'm also packing for a week teaching and learning from my APPO colleagues in California, and sharing the latest information on photo organizing and preserving memories in this digital age. Do you have a burning or nagging question about what to do with your photos, films, tapes, or digital snaps? Please hop on over to my Facebook page and start up a conversation. This is a great time to get your questions answered, when I'm sitting with some of the best and brightest in the industry.

You only have a few more hours to get in on the two giveaways that are running right now. Click on the pictures below to enter. Lots more on tap this month, so be sure to subscribe to my blog.
